“The bionic technology is impressive, but it was the personal connection that really made a difference.”

Sgt. Peter Connell
Army—Retired and above knee amputee

Bionic Technology—the future is now and Next Step Clinics are at the forefront of the industry. We are a team of professionals who understand that to design the right fit, you must first understand the person. We call that understanding e-motion.

It is not a term you normally relate to the art of Bionics & Prosthetics. Yet, it is the source of how technology for Peter, and other Next Step Clinics patients, is melded into everything we do. It is personal at the highest level. It is expertise that is shared—one patient at a time, every time.

This understanding is the first step to a better life...just ask Peter.
